Framework Law: Milei receives updates via WhatsApp

His entourage confirmed to the Buenos Aires newspaper El Destape that the president does not want to watch the debate.

President Javier Milei stayed at Quinta de Olivos while his Framework Law was being debated in the House of Representatives. Sources close to him told El Destape that he will not watch what happens in the room "not even for a minute".

"It's boring, he has more important things to do," they said and then added: "The spectacle of some people is pathetic; they're looking for their moment in the spotlight." The president only interrupted his stay at Olivos on Monday to receive the ship from the U.S. Coast Guard, which arrived to conduct joint exercises with the Argentine Navy to assist in coastal patrols and to combat illegal fishing, they said.

The only information the President receives is via WhatsApp through Martín Menem, the head of the House of Representatives. The President is optimistic about the final result of the vote in the House. He believes that preliminary approval will occur during the day on Tuesday. One of his officials, such as Minister Guillermo Francos (who traveled to Rosario) has returned and is already in Congress.

"Throw out the Framework Law, throw out everything that we are going to achieve everything in spite of politics. We achieved the impossible during the first month," he said, taking a provocative tone at last week's Freedom Foundation dinner. Before the weekend, the President warned that he may repeat the modus operandi of the first omnibus law. "If it is blocked, Milei is willing to do the omnibus law, of course," one of the President's top officials told El Destape.

In February, the omnibus law was defeated in the House of Representatives. There were challenges to some sections and articles from certain dialogue-seeking voting blocks and even from official party representatives, and Milei ordered the withdrawal of the bill, returning everything to square one. In the final vote, La Libertad Avanza has been informed that between 135 and 140 deputies will vote in favor of the law. Although the Senate continues to be the great mystery.

Ley Bases: Milei recibe las actualizaciones por WhatsApp

Desde su entorno le confirmaron al diario de Buenos Aires El Destape, que el presidente no quiere ver el debate.

El presidente Javier Milei se quedó en la Quinta de Olivos mientras se debate su ley Bases en Diputados. Fuentes de su entorno contaron a El Destape que no mirará "ni un minuto" por televisión lo que suceda en el recinto.

"Es aburrido, tiene cosas más importantes que hacer", afirmaron y agregaron: "Es patético el espectáculo de algunos, buscan su minuto de fama". El mandatario sólo interrumpió su estadía en Olivos este lunes para ir a recibir al buque de la Guardia Costera estadounidense, que llegó para hacer ejercicios conjuntos con la Marina argentina y ayudar a patrullar las costas y combatir, dijeron, la pesca ilegal.

La única información que recibe el Presidente es vía WhatsApp a través de Martín Menem, el titular de la Cámara Baja. El mandatario es optimista sobre el resultado final de la votación en Diputados. Cree que habrá media sanción durante el martes. Un funcionario suyo, como el ministro Guillermo Francos (que viajó a Rosario) volvió y ya se encuentra en el Congreso.

"Tiren la ley Bases, tiren todo que vamos a lograr todo a pesar de la política. Lo que era imposible lo alcanzamos el primer mes", dijo, con tono provocador en la cena de la Fundación Libertad la semana pasada. Antes del fin de semana, el Presidente avisó que puede repetir el modus operandi de la primera ley ómnibus. "Si se llegara a tratar, Milei está dispuesto a hacer lo de la ley ómnibus, por supuesto", afirmó uno de los principales funcionarios del Presidente a El Destape.

En febrero se cayó la kilométrica ley ómnibus en Diputados. Hubo cuestionamientos a los y ex funcionarios de ciertos sectores dialogistas y hasta de oficialistas y Milei ordenó anular el proyecto y volver todo a fojas cero. En el poroteo final, en La Libertad Avanza
